THE HEATHENS IN THE COUNCIL.

The Common Council, on Monday evening, voted, 10 to 8, to decorate and to illuminate the Court House on the occasion of the grand Turner Fest, which comes off in this city in August. The Chicago Times is fearfully wrought upon the subject, and, in an article of considerable length, protests against the decoration and illumination. The Times is not opposed to the festivities, but it is opposed to the Council's having anything to do with them. It says:

> "The Council is the representative of the whole people, and not of any class or clique. Whatever it does is done in the name of the whole people, and at the expense of the whole people. It has no more right to appropriate money to pay for lamps to be lighted in honor of a German festival than it has to appropriate money to pay for lamps to be lighted in honor of a Catholic festival, and to reconstruct a society on the basis of an infidel system of social economy."

The Times also Protestantic visitors. Good enough.

On other votes, that on the Alderman of Cheltenham, the Times of this morning says:

> "Those voting in the negative are compelled to believe that the Common Council would not countenance Sunday violations of the law, or disregard Christ's principles in the conduct of public affairs." The affirmative vote stood as follows:

> "Yeas—Aldermen Bolles, Walsh, Kenny, Hoffman, Cullerton, Hoffman, Hoffman, Hoffman

BISHOP VS. BESTOR.

Closing Arguments on the Motion to Dissolve Mr. Cheney's Injunction.

Able Orations by Hon. H. W. Fuller and Hon W. C. Goudy.

A Decision to be Given on Next Friday.

MORNING SESSION.

The hearing in the case of the Rev. Mr. Cheney against the Rev. Samuel Chase, D. D., and others, before Judge Dickey, was resumed at 9 o'clock this morning.

MR. FULLER ENDORSES.

Mr. FULLER, counsel for the defendants, announced his approval of the statements of the case made by Mr. Cheney's counsel in the Last Reporter, to clear the docket of a tedious and long-drawn case, and to prevent delay, the case of Mr. Cheney would be submitted on the affidavits and bills now before the Court, without argument.

Mr. GOUDY, counsel for Mr. Cheney, said that the statements of the case made by Mr. Fuller were not correct. He had not agreed to submit the case on the affidavits and bills, but had only consented that the Court might read the affidavits and bills before hearing argument. He desired to argue the case, and would not be satisfied to have it submitted in any other way.

Mr. FULLER replied that he had understood that Mr. Goudy was not dissatisfied with the statements of the case made by him, and had therefore consented to submit the case on the affidavits and bills. He had not agreed to argue the case, but had only consented that the Court might read the affidavits and bills before hearing argument.

Mr. GOUDY said that he had not understood that Mr. Fuller would submit the case on the affidavits and bills, but had only consented that the Court might read the affidavits and bills before hearing argument. He desired to argue the case, and would not be satisfied to have it submitted in any other way.

The Court then ordered that the case be submitted on the affidavits and bills, and that counsel be heard in argument.

Mr. GOUDY then said that he would like to be heard in argument on the motion to dissolve the injunction.

The COURT thought that would be unnecessary, as the case had been submitted on the affidavits and bills.

Mr. GOUDY thought that he had misunderstood the Court, and that he had been allowed to argue the motion to dissolve the injunction.

The COURT thought that counsel had not understood him. He had not intended to allow counsel to argue the motion to dissolve the injunction, but had only intended to allow counsel to read the affidavits and bills before hearing argument.

Mr. GOUDY said that he had not understood the Court in that way, and that he would like to be heard in argument on the motion to dissolve the injunction.

The COURT then ordered that the case be submitted on the affidavits and bills, and that counsel be heard in argument on the motion to dissolve the injunction.

Mr. GOUDY then said that he would like to be heard in argument on the motion to dissolve the injunction.

The COURT thought that counsel had not understood him. THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.

Enthusiastic Demonstration Last Evening in Honor of the Landing of the French Cable.

Addresses by General Hardcastle Davis, Hon. J. V. Suffrean, and Messrs Garvey, Prosbetig, and Others.

An Interesting Reunion of Nationalities.

One of the great events of the day has taken a march upon the age. When the Atlantic cable was finally laid, amid the rejoicings of nations, and the congratulations of statesmen, people could scarcely be brought to believe that intelligence from Europe had become the mere matter of a few hours' transit. But since the day the Old Continent has had no more striking evidence of the wonderful advance of the age in the matter of rapid communication than was afforded by the reception of the news of the landing of the French cable.

Although there was no official announcement, it was generally understood that the cable would be landed on the shores of Newfoundland yesterday morning, and that the news would be received in this city during the evening. Accordingly, at an early hour, a large crowd began to assemble in front of the TRIBUNE office, and by 7 o'clock the whole of the space in front of the building was filled.

THE ILLUMINATION

of the mail and business portions of the city was not to be thought of, as the streets were filled with people, and the display of fireworks would have been attended with danger. The residence portion of the city, however, was brilliantly illuminated, and the display was a very fine one. Every house in the city seemed to be ablaze with light, and the effect was very beautiful.

W. B. Ogden, Esq., then delivered a brief address, which was received with cheers. Part in poor

[illegible] the audience to

Professor Swing, the Chairman, Lieutenant-Governor Young and ex-Governor Bross, of Illinois, and Governor Palmer, of Michigan, were then introduced to the audience, and the Chairman announced the following which had been received from Governor Fenton, of New York:

TELEGRAM
